Teaser	The Free State of Bavaria supports the production and development of high-quality and non-violent computer and video games with funds from the Bavarian State Ministry for Digital Affairs.
Volltext	In Bavaria as a high-tech and media location, the media industry is an important economic factor with great growth potential in the creative-technical sector. The Bavarian state government supports the development of high-quality, educationally or culturally valuable computer games. The aim is to strengthen the performance of the Bavarian development and production industry as well as the digital audiovisual location in Europe. Computer game funding is based on three pillars: concept development, prototype development and production. Development studios and companies that primarily develop or distribute computer games are eligible to apply.
Erforderliche Unterlagen	• Project description • Financing plan • Culture Test • further documents are dependent on the respective funding area
