Kosten	There are no costs for you for the birth certification. Thereafter, there is a charge of €30 for declarations, consents or approvals based on family law regulations.
Verfahrensablauf	The easiest way is to have the desired first names and surnames entered in the birth register as part of the birth announcement. Inform the birth institution of the desired first names and the child's surname. This facility will then forward the information to the relevant registry office. The registry office of your child's place of birth is always responsible. If you do not do this, you must submit a declaration on the child's name within one month of the birth. Some declarations must be notarized. This can be done by a notary or the registry office. To do this, the person making the declaration must appear in person at the notarizing office. Further information can be

Frist	If you have not yet notified the registry office of your first name at the time of birth, you must do so within one month of the birth. You must also inform the registry office of the child's birth name within one month of the birth. If you do not do this, the registry office is obliged to inform the competent family court. The family court will then transfer the right to determine the name to one of the parents. The child will be given the surname of this parent as its birth name, unless this parent chooses the surname of the other parent as the child's birth name.

Hinweise	The name of a child with habitual residence in Germany is generally determined according to German law. However, you can declare at the registry office that the child should be given the name • according to the law of the country to which one of the parents or the child belongs, • according to German law if one parent has their habitual residence in Germany, or • according to the law of the country to which the person giving the name belongs. The embassy or consulate of the country in question can provide you with detailed information on foreign naming laws. You can obtain further information on the possibility of choosing the law of another country by declaration from the relevant registry office.
