Verfahrensablauf	At least one and a half years should be planned for the process of state recognition. In particular, documents that are subject to a fee should only be created after consultation with the authorities. The recognition procedure is basically divided into the following steps: first contact If your project is already sufficiently concrete, you should contact the authority and arrange an appointment (contact: hochschulen_zwei@bwfgeb.hamburg.de). In order to better prepare for the appointment, you should send a short and meaningful description of the project to the authority in advance. It should briefly describe the technical goals and the economic framework data (approx. five pages). Preparation of the application documents After the interview, the necessary application documents will be prepared and sent to the authorities. interim confirmation After an examination period of approx. three months, the authorities will give you an initial response to the documents submitted. revision of the documents Based on the feedback from the authority, the documents may need to be revised. In addition, the necessary documents/evidence must be obtained from auditors, the Science Council, the accreditation agency and, if necessary, lawyers. application The possibly revised documents are sent to the authority together with the required documents/evidence and the application for state recognition.
