Teaser

Would you like to take over an alcohol-serving restaurant from someone else? In order to continue the catering business without any interruption in time, you can first apply for a temporary permit, which will later be replaced by the final permit.

Modul

Sachverhalt

Volltext

You need a permit to operate a restaurant where you want to serve/sell alcohol. Only if you offer alcoholic beverages does your restaurant business require a permit. However, if you only offer non-alcoholic beverages and prepared food, your catering business does not require a permit. If you want to take over the restaurant from someone else, you can apply for a temporary permit under easier conditions - to enable seamless continued operation. This provisional permit is usually granted for a maximum of three months and is later replaced by a final permit. However, the period of validity of the provisional permit can be exceptionally extended for important reasons. This applies above all if a final permit is not granted within the three-month period. It is a hospitality business if you are commercial Dispense drinks (tavern) or administer prepared meals (catering), and the company is accessible to everyone or a certain group of people.

Erforderliche Unterlagen

Voraussetzungen

You can only be granted a temporary restaurant license if you want to take over an existing alcohol-serving restaurant without any changes. You cannot apply for a provisional restaurant permit for a new establishment or expansion. This means that no changes may be made to the premises or to the operating mode, for example as a bar, dining area or discotheque as part of the continuation of operations. You will only receive the provisional permit if you have already applied for the restaurant permit or are applying at the same time
