Teaser	A dedication is the order by which a street, path or square is declared a public path and is thus available to the general public.
Volltext	When a new street, path or square is built, it is always initially private property in the legal sense. This applies regardless of the developer or the size of the street, path or square. The dedication allows you as a citizen to use a street, path or square and specifies the type of intended use. In Hamburg, the designation of streets, paths and squares is decided by the road supervisory authority and announced to you via the notice sheet. The dedication can also stipulate that a path, street or square may only be used by the public to a limited extent (for example, only for pedestrians or cyclists). Through decommissioning, a dedicated street, path or square loses its status as a public path.

Hinweise

Paths on or near flood protection structures are dedicated with the proviso that their use can be restricted or prohibited at any time for reasons of flood protection. The path thus remains part of the flood protection structure and the provisions of dike law apply.

If the path is no longer needed for public use, the dedication can be reversed (de-dedication). De-dedication can also be carried out if the public good makes it necessary. De-dedication is also announced publicly.

Any use that goes beyond the scope of the dedication is a special use. In order to make a special use, you need a special use permit.
