Teaser	In order to be able to work temporarily as a veterinarian in Germany without a license to practice medicine, you need a permit.
Volltext	If you have completed training as a veterinarian, but do not have a license to practice medicine and only want to work as a veterinarian temporarily, you need a permit. The permit entitles you to use the professional title "veterinarian" or "veterinarian". Permission can be restricted to certain activities and employment positions. It may only be revocable and may only be issued for a total duration of the veterinary activity of no more than 4 years. An extension beyond the 4 years is possible under certain conditions.

Erforderliche Unterlagen

The following documents must be submitted:

- informal application for permission to practice the veterinary profession temporarily,
- Proof of citizenship (certified copy of ID card, passport or proof of identity),
- Proof of professional qualification (veterinary diploma, test certificate or other veterinary qualification/evidence of training),
- Signed curriculum vitae in tabular form: up-to-date, brief and with a detailed, chronologically complete presentation of the training path and professional career
- Certificate from the future employer about the possibility of employment and justification (e.g. employment contract, needs assessment)
- Certificate of good conduct to be presented to an authority as proof of impunity (this proof may not be more than 3 months old when the application is submitted.)
- Medical certificate stating that your health is suitable for practicing the veterinary profession
- No medical certificate is required.
- This proof may not be more than 3 months old at the time of application.

The documents can be sent to the competent authority without any specific form requirements.

Note: You must enclose foreign-language documents in German translation. The translation must be carried out by an officially sworn document interpreter. Diplomas and certificates of veterinary training must be submitted in certified translations.
