Hinweise

- The marriage usually takes place in the registry office. You can ask your registry office whether marriages outside the registry office are also offered and which locations are possible. Appointments are also offered on some Saturdays.

- In the event of an acute, life-threatening illness, your marriage can, under certain circumstances, be held at very short notice in hospital, a care facility or at home. The registry office at your place of residence is responsible for registering the marriage. Please contact your local registry office immediately by phone or email.

- Two foreign nationals can also marry before a marriage celebrant duly authorized by the government of their home country in the form prescribed by the law of that country, provided that one of the engaged couple is a national of that country and none of the parties to the marriage is also a German citizen. A marriage in a German registry office is then no longer necessary.
