Handlungsgrundlage	§ 7 paragraph 3 poultry exhibitions and poultry markets (GeflPestSchV)
Teaser	If you are exhibiting ducks and geese at a poultry show or poultry market, you must have them examined beforehand. This can be avoided by keeping ducks and geese together with chickens or turkeys beforehand.
Volltext	Your ducks and geese may only be displayed at a poultry exhibition or a poultry market if these animals have been virologically tested for the highly pathogenic avian influenza virus (bird flu) by means of swab samples before the event. The examination must be carried out no later than 7 days before the event. Samples of 60 animals from your herd are required. If you keep fewer than 60 animals, your entire population must be examined. The result must be negative. The examination of ducks and geese can be omitted if these animals are kept together with chickens or turkeys. The chickens or turkeys must be used to detect the introduction or spread of avian influenza at an early stage. (sentinel animals) You must report this joint keeping of ducks and geese with chickens or turkeys to the competent authority without delay. The required number of sentinel animals can be found in Appendix 2 of the Avian Influenza Ordinance.
Erforderliche Unterlagen	Evidence of Annex 2 Avian Influenza Ordinance (correct number of sentinel animals (chickens or turkeys kept together).
Voraussetzungen	Animals must count among geese, ducks, chickens and turkeys Keeping the animals together is mandatory for at least seven days before the event Event must be a poultry market or poultry exhibition. Correct number of sentinel animals (chickens or turkeys kept together) according to Annex 2 Avian Influenza Ordinance
