Teaser	You must apply for a certificate of seclusion if you wish to establish a separate property or assert a permanent right of residence.
Volltext	If you wish to establish separate ownership of an apartment or non-residential premises (e.g., commercial premises) or a parking space, you will need a certificate of separate ownership. You will also need this if you wish to establish the right to permanently occupy a certain apartment in the building (permanent right of occupancy). The certificate of seclusion proves that • apartments or rooms not used for residential purposes are structurally closed off from other apartments and rooms, and

- have their own lockable access.

Special ownership can also be established for parking spaces and parts of the property outside the building, such as terraces or garden areas. The special property must be clearly defined by dimension specifications in the construction drawings.

The certificate of seclusion is issued by the responsible building authority after checking your documents.

Erforderliche Unterlagen

- Application for the issuance of a certificate of seclusion
- Site plan

In case of written application: in 3 copies

- Construction drawings

The construction drawing must be an as-built drawing for existing buildings.

In case of written application: in 3 copies

- Proof of ownership (current excerpt from the land register or purchase contract or administrator's contract)

Voraussetzungen

You must prove that you are either the owner or heritable building right holder of the rooms for which a certificate of seclusion is requested. Alternatively, you must provide credible evidence of your legitimate interest (e.g. purchaser).

The respective property must be located in the Free Hanseatic City of Bremen.

Apartments or rooms not used for residential purposes are closed off if they are structurally completely separated from other apartments and rooms (e.g. by walls and ceilings) and have their own
