Teaser	If you wish to provide pension advice, you must register with the competent authority in the legal services register.
Volltext	Pension advice is an area of legal services. If you wish to provide pension advice in the following areas, you must register with the competent authority and be entered in the legal services register: • statutory pension and accident insurance, • social compensation law, • other social security and disability law relating to a statutory pension as well as occupational and occupational pension schemes. You must be personally suitable and reliable. Important benchmarks for the required reliability are previous experience (in particular any criminal offenses) and financial circumstances. You will also need proof of special expertise (theoretical and practical) in the relevant areas of law. Professional

Hinweise

Legal services register and public announcement:

In accordance with Section 16 of the Legal Services Act (RDG), a transnational legal services register will be established. This serves to provide information free of charge to those seeking legal services, persons offering legal services, the legal profession and other public bodies. Persons who are permitted to provide legal services in one or more of the areas or sub-areas specified in Section 10 (1) RDG (debt collection services, pension advice and legal services in a foreign law) and persons or associations who have been definitively prohibited from providing legal services in accordance with Section 9 (1) RDG are published in the legal services register.

The public announcement pursuant to Section 16 para. 3 sentence 1 RDG is made several times a day by means of a central publication of all registration authorities on these pages.

The publicly published data will be deleted if the requirements of Section 17 RDG are met.
